Pipe Trades industry showcases workforce, policy issues at Arizona State Capitol

March 2, 2010 – PHOENIX The Arizona Pipe Trades Local 469 will take center stage at the Arizona State Capitol this week, holding its Second Lunch on the Capitol Lawn 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, March 4. Local 469 – a TCLG client – will have its leadership, journeymen, retirees and apprentices in attendance to share with members of the legislature and the general public the importance of the pipe trades in Arizona’s economy, as well as policy issues that effect working families.

The event – which includes a complimentary barbecue lunch – will take place on the Arizona House of Representatives Lawn, 1700 W. Washington Street, on the east side of the Capitol.

“Our organization remains focused on creating partnerships in the construction industry, with community leaders, and elected officials,” says Phil McNally, Local 469 business manager. “Having face-to-face time with the people we count on to make sound policy not only helps our trade, but enlightens our membership as to how public policy is made.”
